POETRY.

A THOUGHT.

You sail on the borizon's verge Doth like a wandering spirit seem-A shadow in a sea of light— The passing of a dream.

A moment more, and it is gone!
We know not how—we know not where— It came—an instant stay'd—and then It vanished into air.

Such are we all-we sail awhile In joy, on life's fair summer sea-A moment-and our bark is gone Into eternity!

AMUSING MISCELLANY.

Keeley in the Provinces. - Chelmsford is decidedly the worst theatrical town in England. Keeley was once unfortunate enough to go thither as a star; the first night he acted to a select few, the second night the members were scantier than before, and on the third and last night the auditors were few and far between; the last piece was "The Hundred Pound Note," in which Keeley played the conundrum-making Billy Black; in the last scene he advanced to the lights and said. "I've one more, and this is a good un. 'Why is the Chelmsford theatre like a half moon?' D'ye give it up? 'Because it's never full.' "

Knight, Kean, and Kemble.-When John Kemble retired, little Knight wrote a bombastic and eulogistic elegy, commencing and concluding with the lines-'Many shall come, and many shall dare, But none shall fill the vacated chair."

"I know nothing about the chair," said old Powell, "but all London agrees that Kean has 'risen and pushed him from his stool."

The Young Roscius .- Betty had some fantastic notions in dress, which he indulged despite of the remonstrances of his friends. One summer he sported a pair of indescribables made of children's map pocket handkerchiefs; our readers may see the sort of thing we mean, maps of London and its environs, &c., marked up at haberdashers at a penny a-piece. A gentleman suggested to the late young Roscius the singularity of such garments. "My good Sir," replied Betty, "you don't perceive the convenience and utility they are of; for instance, as I am driving, I may become doubtful as to my route, undo the gig-apron, and there I have all the information I want upon my thigh." This Betty called his map-ography.

An Excuse. - Blanchard was not the most careful of men, and returning from some provincial engagement, Mrs B. found amid his linen an old stocking, marked with initials that were certainly not W. B. Strange doubts arose in her mind, and she at last popped the question-"Where could you possibly have got that stocking?" Blanchard, not at all confused, replied, "I had forgotten my portmanteau, and I borrowed it of a friend of mine who had a wooden leg."

Elegant Epistle. - When Messrs H - and W -- n were provincial actors, their treasury ran low. H----addressed the following note to his friend: "Dear W.,-Lend me a couple of shillings until Saturday, and oblige "P. S. On second thoughts, make it three." To this epistle he received the following reply:-

"Dear Jack,-I have only one shilling myself, or

Yourswould oblige. "On second thoughts, I must change that for dinner."

An erudite Manager .- F-, whatever his merits may be, or rather may have been, as a manager, has cultivated a very slender acquaintance with either Lindley Murray or Mavor: on one occasion he was arranging a spectacle, and wished to form his troop in an oblique direction, he gave the word thus-" Right about face, -march, -left shoulders forward. Now form in an opaque line across the stage." The same grave authority objecting to the charge for the keeping of the elephant then exhibiting at Covent-garden, said "he can't eat the quantity, I defy him, let his appetite be ev-

A Mistake Turned to Account.—I was once dining in company with some old members of Parliament now dead, who related a number of anecdotes, of which I relate only this:—"Mr Pitt, once speaking in the House of Commons in the early part of his career, of the of Commons in the early part of his career, of the glorious war which proceeded the disastrous one, in which we lost the colonies, called it 'the last war.' He took no notice, and soon after repeating the mistake, he was interrupted by a general cry of 'The last war but one, the last war but one.' 'I mean Sir,' said Mr Pitt, turning to the Speaker and raising his sonorous voice, 'I mean, Sir, the last war that Britons would wish to remember;' whereupon the cry was instantaneously changed into an universal cheer, long and loud." -The Original.

The good natured author.—The late Mr Segur, among other literary productions, supplied the French Theatres with a number of pleasing trifles. If he was not always successful, he was at least always gay in his years was ill-received by the matter. The control of the con reverses When his works were ill-received by the public, he consoled himself for a failure by a bon-mot; he made a point even of consoling his companions in misfortune.

About twenty years ago, a piece of his brought forward

TUCKER, 3 Brattle square. was called the Yellow Cabriolet, which happened to be wholly condemned on the first representation. Some days afterwards, a piece by another author, was presented, which was equally unfortunate. The author, petrified at his failure, stood for a moment immoveable. "Come, come, my dear sir," said Mr Segur, "Don't Coatings—will be sold by the piece, yard, or made into be cast down, I will give you a seat in my Yellow

The Pressed Tailor.—Among all the ingenious devices invented by luckless and penyless wights to victimize the poor tailor and defraud him of his just dues, one which lately occurred at Cork, in Ireland, seems to one which lately occurred at Cork, in Ireland, seems to bear off the palm. One of the gentlemen of the thimble having gone on board the Royal Tar steamer, on the eve of her departure for Spain, to demand pay of some of the recruits for the army, was flatly refused, some of the recruits for the army, was flatly refused, and having been taken sick from the motion of the vessel, went into the cabin, during which the boat got under weigh, and poor Snip was carried off with the rest to en-list in the service of Queen Isabel.

Reverse. - A pot-boy, (aged about 40) in a certain tap-house, in London, being observed with a fit of the blue devils upon him, was asked the reason, "Ah, sir," said he, "I can't help thinking of what I once was .-Although I am a pot-boy now, I once was a dust

Clerical Rapacity Punished .-- The immense wealth of Mr Bowes, father of the late Countess of Strathmore arose in great part from his mines in Dur-MAN BUREN. ham. He paid in tithe to the rector of one parish in an equitable modus £700 per annuan. The rector became covetous of a larger modus and demanded £1,- 000 per annum. Mr Bowes desired a few days to consider the matter. In the interim he sent for his head miner, and gave him orders to shut up the shaft then in use, and to open one in the next parish, where there was a very poor living. He then sent word to the covetous man that the shaft was shut up, and should never be opened while the living was held by him.

It is worthy of remark that the Duke of Buccleuch's munificent gift of ninety-nine years' lease to the heirs of the Ettrick Shepherd, of his farm at Altrive, for a peppercorn per year, supposing the original rent (£50 per year) to be laid out at interest would accumulate, by the end of the lease, to odds of £100,000 sterling.

An Englishman lately drew in the lottery of Paris 1,200,000 francs.

PROPOSALS will be received until Tuesday, the 23d of February, for the Carpenter work of finishing the interior of the new Catholic Church of South end and Roxbury-the plan and specification can be seen at Mr P. COMMERFORD'S 794 Washington st.

the Almond with the detergency of the common Alkaline Soap.

Chapped Hands.—Camphor Soap—J. & E. E. A. recommend this Soap as containing a greater quantity of Camphor than has hitherto been considered practicable. It possesses all the cooling and other good qualities of that well known article.
For Family Use—Atkinson's old brown Windsor Soap.
Ambrosial Soap—It is made from pure vegetable oil, and is equally mild as the almond, only differing from it in perfume and color—the latter being a light brown, and the perfume a combination of those most geterally approved.
The above, with every other new and fashionrole Soap and Shaving Cakes, are always ready for exportation, and an allowance is always made on taking one or more dozen.
Atkinson's Concentrated Essence of Lavender—prepared four times the strength of the best Lavender Water, freed from all the empyreuma of the spirit, and unsophisticated with the sickly admixture of musk, ambergris, &c. The superiority of this article to Lavender Water is, that it is much more powerful and fragrant—it is also much cheaper, as there is four times more perfume of the Essence for the money, than in the best Lavender water in use.

cured from the animal in its native climate, it being known to possess more vivifying properties when so procured, than when the animal is in a domesticated state. It is of the finest quality, and is sent out without any admixture, except a little perfume to keep it sweet—and for the growth of hair it is no doubt far superior to any thing hitherto known. Also for dressing the hair it is very pleasant and useful—cleansing the head from dandriff, and making the hair beautifully soft and glossy.

Atkinson's Cuclier Floric.

Atkinson's Curling Fluid, or Vegetable Hair Oil—for dressing the Hair This article has been very generally patronised for the last twenty years—and is considered an indispensable appendage to the toilet—it is a most excellent article for dressing the hair, making it, however, harsh, soft and glossy as silk—and keeping it in curl in exercise or damp weather.

Almond Shaving Paste—In very neat portable pots; a very elegant and excellent preparation for sagving.

Milk of Almonds—The most elegant and efficacious cosmetic hiherto introduced. It is a great improvement to what has long been known as Milk of Roses. It removes freekles, redness, roughness, &c. from the skin, and gives it a brilliant clearness and whiteness.

Atkinson's Depilatory—For removing superfluous Hair on the Face, Neck or Arms, with equal certainty and safety, leaving the skin softer and whiter than before the application.

Hudson's Botanic Tooth Powaer and Tincture.—These Deptifices, which have so much attracted the attention of the Dentrifices, which have so much attracted the attention of the Medical Profession, are remedies for all disorders of the mouth; they not merely cleanse and beautify the Teoth, but mouth; they not merely cleanse and beautily the Teoth, but preserve them from decay. They make the Teeth white, fast en sach as are loose, eradicate the scurvy and tartar from the gams, leaving them firm and of a healthy redness, and if used regularly will supersede the necessity of a Dentist. They are entirely free of acid, and so innocent that a child may take the contents of a box of the Powder; and the Tincture is an excellent stomachic, and a certain remedy for the Toothache.

And such have been the salutary effects of these Pills even in hopeless cases, as so far to mingate the sufferings of the patient, as evidently to prolong life for days and weeks, and give to it, a positive comfort they never expected to enjoy. The operation of the pills is wonderful in easing respiration, quieting the cough, and procuring comfortable rest.

Common colds are frequently removed in a few hours.

27-*Although, (says a person speaking of these Pills) my wile hastried various medicines of the first celebrity, for an Asthmatic difficulty, (or affection of the lungs) which at times was exceedingly distressing, confining her to her home for days and weeks together, she finds nothing gives her the relief which Relfe's Asthmatic Pills do!—easing her tespiration quieting her cough, and iving her comfortable rest? And, this is the testimony of hundreds or thousands. The relief which aged people, as well as others, experience from the use of these Pills, is truly astonishing, and readers them involvable to many, and are in fact to some, an essential auxiliary to their comfort, and almost to heir existence!

A Physician informs the Proripetor, that a gentleman in the country observed to him, he had reason to believe the use of these Pills had been the means of saving his life.

The subscriber (late of the firm of Winship & Hewes) respectfully informs his friends and the public, that he has taken the above establishment, formerly occupied by Mrs S. B. Burnham, where he intends carrying on the BAKING business in all its various branches.

The undersigned would take this opportunity to return thanks to his old patrons for their liberal favors; and to exthanks to his old patrons for their liberal favors; and to express his regret that any untoward circumstances should have prevented for a time his supplying them with bread manufactured under his own supervision. He would assure them, however, that he is now prepared to answer all their calls and to furnish them with bread of every kind, of the very first order. His French Rolls, in particular, which have given so much satisfaction heretofore, will be found to possess their usual excellent qualities—rich, nutritive, healthful, sweet—and they who may discover the absence of these qualities, where they have found them very recently, may find them now by calling as above. It is Family Bread, too, he may say with confidence, will give no less satisfaction than formerly, and he will spare no pains to make both the Rolls and Famil Bread of uniform excellence.

A supply of every variety of Cake will be kept constantly on hand; and a share of public patronage is respectfully solucited JABEZ FISHEK HEWES, Agent.

"That there is no law, neither statute law, common law, nor constitutional law, by which a man in our State can be punished for publishing what Mr Cheever published, except in a civil suit for damages. His rights, we think, are trampled upon by judicial power, and he is imprisoned, in our opinion, by arbitrary and undelegated authority.

Our institutions are all founded, from their earliest origin, upon written law, and it has been the constant object of this people, from their first settlement, to be governed by written laws, passed by themselves or their legal representatives. The charter of King Charles the first, to the Plymouth colony, dated in 1628, and known as the colony charter, gave authority to the company "to make laws and ordinances for the good and welfare of said company, and for the government and ordering of said lands and plantations, and the people inhabiting the same, and to inhibit the same, as to them from time to time may be thought meet, so as such laws and ordinances be not contrary or repugnant to the laws and statutes of this, our realm of England."

Here they clearly had the power and authority to make their own laws, with the restriction, that those laws should English I ws did not extend to this colony, except by special enactment. And the English common law, as a code or body, never had any footing here, any more than it had in Wales, Ireland, or Scotland; and it never had foothold in those Kingdoms until after they were respectively united the English courts. The legislative and judicial powers, in the early settlement of the Colony, were united in the same persons. At the first meeting of the Court of Assistants, at Charlestowa, August 23, 1639, they established rules of proceeding in actions, and instituted sabordinate powers for punishing offenders. To ship fishermen on wages, forfeits the right to bounty, as appears from the decision of the Treasury Department hereto annexed.

MR HARRINGTON,

WINIE much celebrated VENTRILOQUIST and MAGICIAN.

Appears from the decision of the same seed.

Notice is also hereby given to those concerned in the fishing business, intending to claim the bounty, that in conformity to instructions from the Treesury Department, the oath of the managing master of every such vessel, as well as that of the managing owner, will be required in fature, respecting the time said vessel has been employed in the fishing business, the quantity of fish caught, and to the correctness of the agreement exhibited at the time of claiming the bodney.

14 W&St3mar DAVID HENSHAW, Collector.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, ?

Sir—With respect to the case of the fishing schooner Elmira of Hingham, presented in your letter of the 14th instant, it is to be observed that as the agreement entered into with the crew has been violated by paying a portion of them monthly wages in money, in hen of dividing the fish or the proceeds of the fishing vayage in the proportions provided for proceeds of the fishing voyage in the proportions provided for by law, the Department is of the opinion, that said vessel is not entitled to bounty, nor are any others similarly situated. For further information upon this point, I transmit herewith copies of two decisions made by the comptroller in the year 1807.

I am very respectfully your obedient servant, LEVI WOODBURY, Secretary of the Treasury. David Henshaw, Esq., Collector, Boston.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, ?

Sir—Your letter to the Secretary of the Treasury, of the 22d ultimo, has been referred to me.

The 4th section of the Act of the 16th of February, 1792, concerning certain fisheries, renders it indispensa' ly requisite that the agreement entered into between the skipper or master of a vessel, and every fisherman employed, should express "that the fish or proceeds of such fishing voyage or voyages, which may appertain to the fishermen, shall be divided among them in proportion to the quantities or number of fish they may respectively have caught."

As the agreement which accompanied your letter contains no such stipulation, the allowance cannot be paid. The agreement is returned.

I am, &c.

TREASURY DRPARTMENT,
Compireller's Office, 24th February, 1807. Sir,—A letter from your Deputy to the Secretary of the Treasury of the 14th instant has been referred to me.
The agreement entered into between the master and seamen of the Schoour Patty is not such as would authorise the payment of the allowance to Fishing Vessels. Instead of monthly wages, it should have been stipulated that, the proceeds of the voyage or voyages appertaining to the seamen, should be divided among them in proportion to the quantity of fish to be caught by each respectively. I return the agreement.
